In JANUARY we will be exploring the value of...

DETERMINATION

DETERMINATION

Determination means... not giving up when things get difficult

The Learning Pit

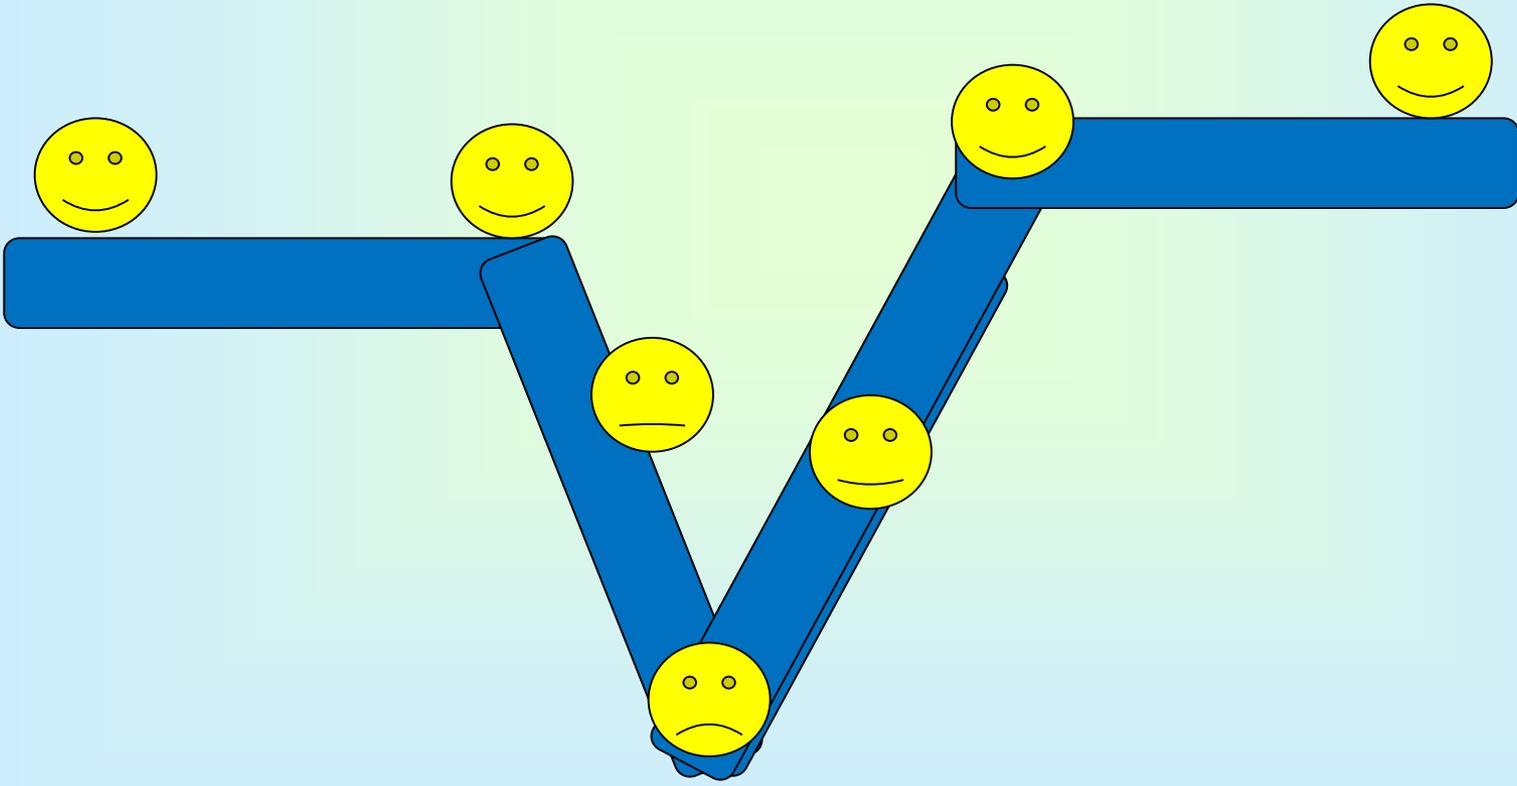

Good learners go into the PIT!

What is a Learning Line?

Think about a

Who do you know who has shown
DETERMINATION?
What have they achieved?

Think of a time when you have been really determined to achieve something.
What did you learn?

Make a 'collection' of people or stories who have shown great
DETERMINATION.
They will become your INSPIRATION!

These people have changed the world with their DETERMINATION to make a difference!

These people have shown huge DETERMINATION to be the best they can be!

On 19 April 2003, Michael Watson made headlines when he completed the London Marathon walking two hours each morning and afternoon for six days. Raising money for the Brain and Spine Foundation, Watson slept overnight in a support bus that followed him along the way. Finishing the race by his side were Chris Eubank and his neurosurgeon, who had become his personal friends.

WHICH STEP HAVE YOU REACHED TODAY ?

One Small Step

Stepping out on a new journey

If I want to walk from where I am standing, to the door, I have to start by taking a step.

If I wanted to walk to the playground, I have to start by taking a step.

If I wanted to walk all around the world, I would have to start by taking a step.

All journeys, whether they are long or short, start with a single step.

Have you ever travelled on a journey?
Where to?

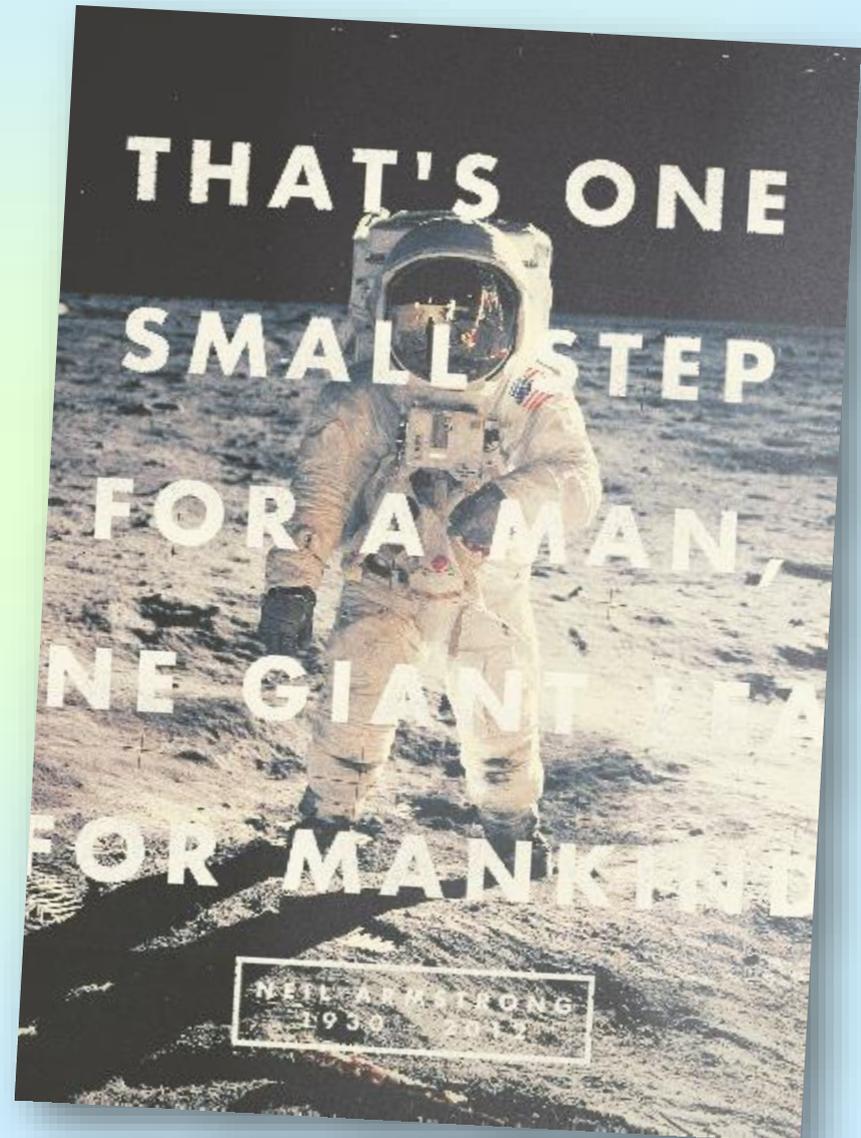

This is a story about a man who took just one step, but this was one of the most important and famous steps ever take.

It was so famous it was on television.

It happened
on 21st July, 1969.

The story really started several years earlier when a group of men started a special training course in America.

Instead of learning how to read and write, these men were learning how to be astronauts.

They knew that if they worked hard and did their best they might be chosen for a very special project.

They were not sure exactly what the project was going to be, but they knew it was important and they knew that it had never been done before.

The men had to follow a very difficult programme.

They exercised to become really fit and strong; they learned how to work all the complicated controls on a space module; they were taught how to move about in huge heavy spacesuits; they practised being weightless in special machines.

The men's bodies became very light as gravity was taken away in the weightless compartment. Instead of standing on the floor or sitting on a chair, the men found themselves floating about.

Everything else, cups, plates, food, even water, floated about as well. It was very strange.

At last the long training programme was over and the men were ready to travel into space.

They knew that only four of them would be chosen. The others would be reserves and might get a chance to go on an expedition to space later.

They waited to hear who was going and where in space they were travelling to.

This is a very special project.
You are not just going into space,
you are going to be the first men
ever to go to the Moon.
You will land on the Moon and be the first human beings to walk on it.

They were delighted, the mission was even more exciting than they had dreamed.

Just think - to be the first people to set foot on the Moon!

Neil Armstrong was the first man to step on the Moon.

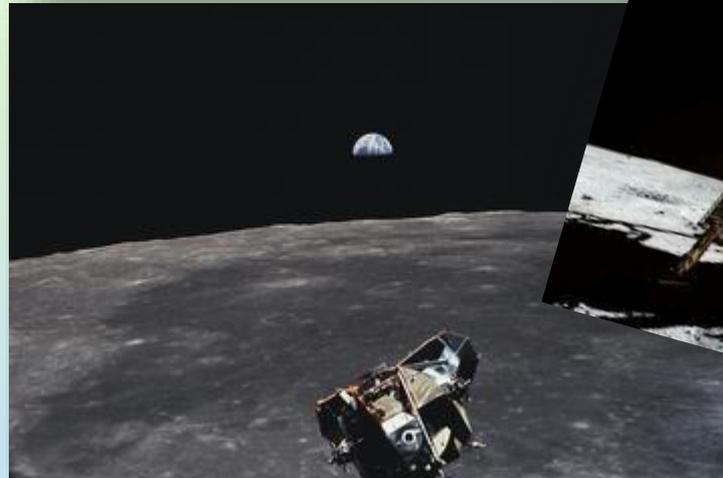

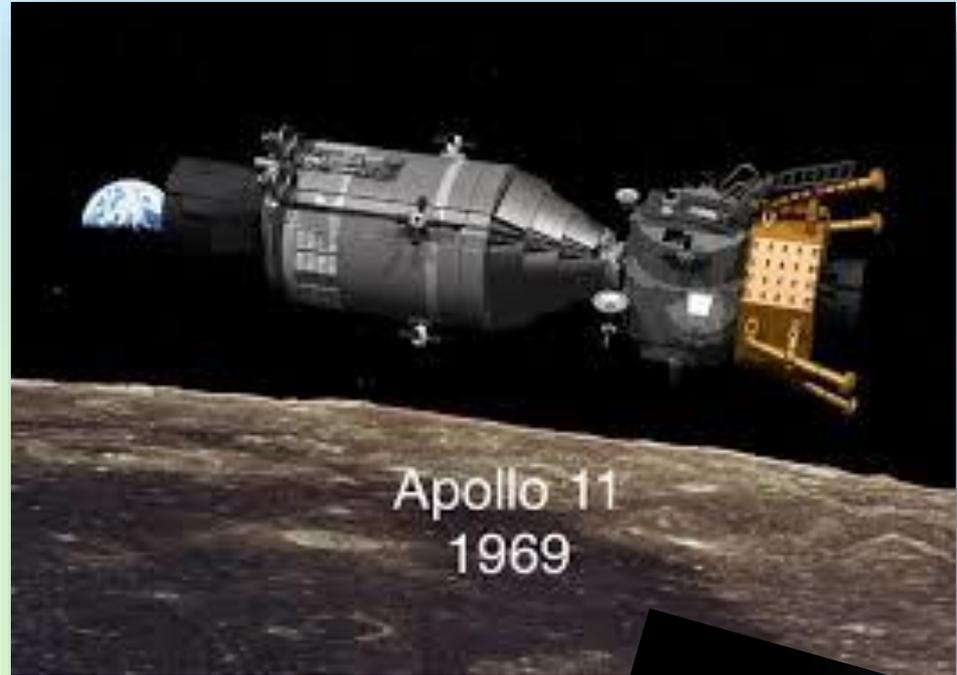

Neil Armstrong, Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin and Michael Collins were the astronauts on Apollo 11.

At last the day of the rocket launch arrived.

It took some time for the rocket to travel to the Moon and boost itself into the Moon's orbit.

Once in orbit the astronauts prepared to launch the lunar module from the mother ship. It was successful and the module dropped quietly onto the surface of the Moon.

The astronauts had arrived.

Slowly the lunar module door opened and a step ladder poked its way to the ground. Neil Armstrong, the first astronaut, climbed in his spacesuit onto the first step.

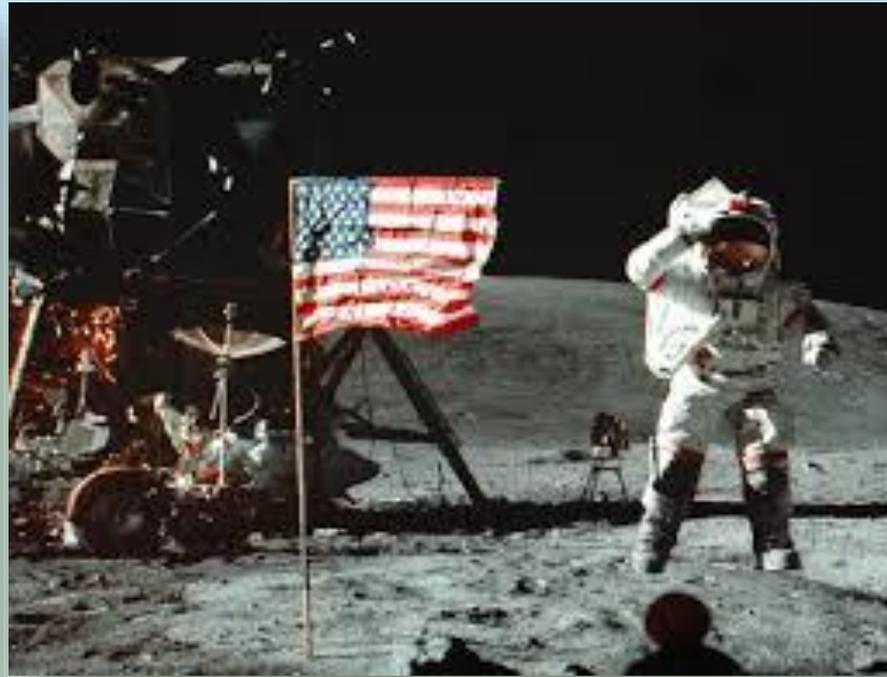

Down he climbed, step by step, until he was just one step away from the Moon's surface. No one had ever set foot here before, his was to be the first step ever made by man, on the Moon.

He stretched out his foot and placed it firmly on the Moon.

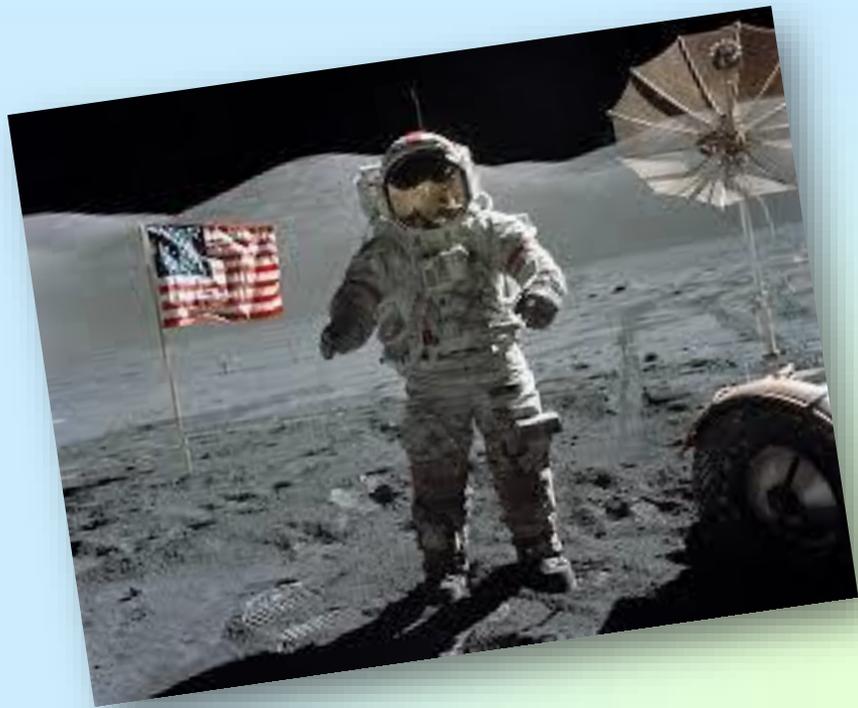

"That's one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind," he said.

They collected samples of rocks and stones, and went for a ride in their moon buggy.

Then, sadly, it was time to leave and begin the journey back to the mother ship, still in orbit above them, and then home.

A few days later, the astronauts arrived back on Earth. The project was a huge success.

2017 year has been like a journey.

A year ago in January we took our first step. We didn't know exactly what would happen at each step on our journey, but every day we took another step towards our new school.

We are stepping out into a new adventure.
We need to take care of our lovely new building.

Dear Lord,

Thank you God, for fun and friends and fellowship.

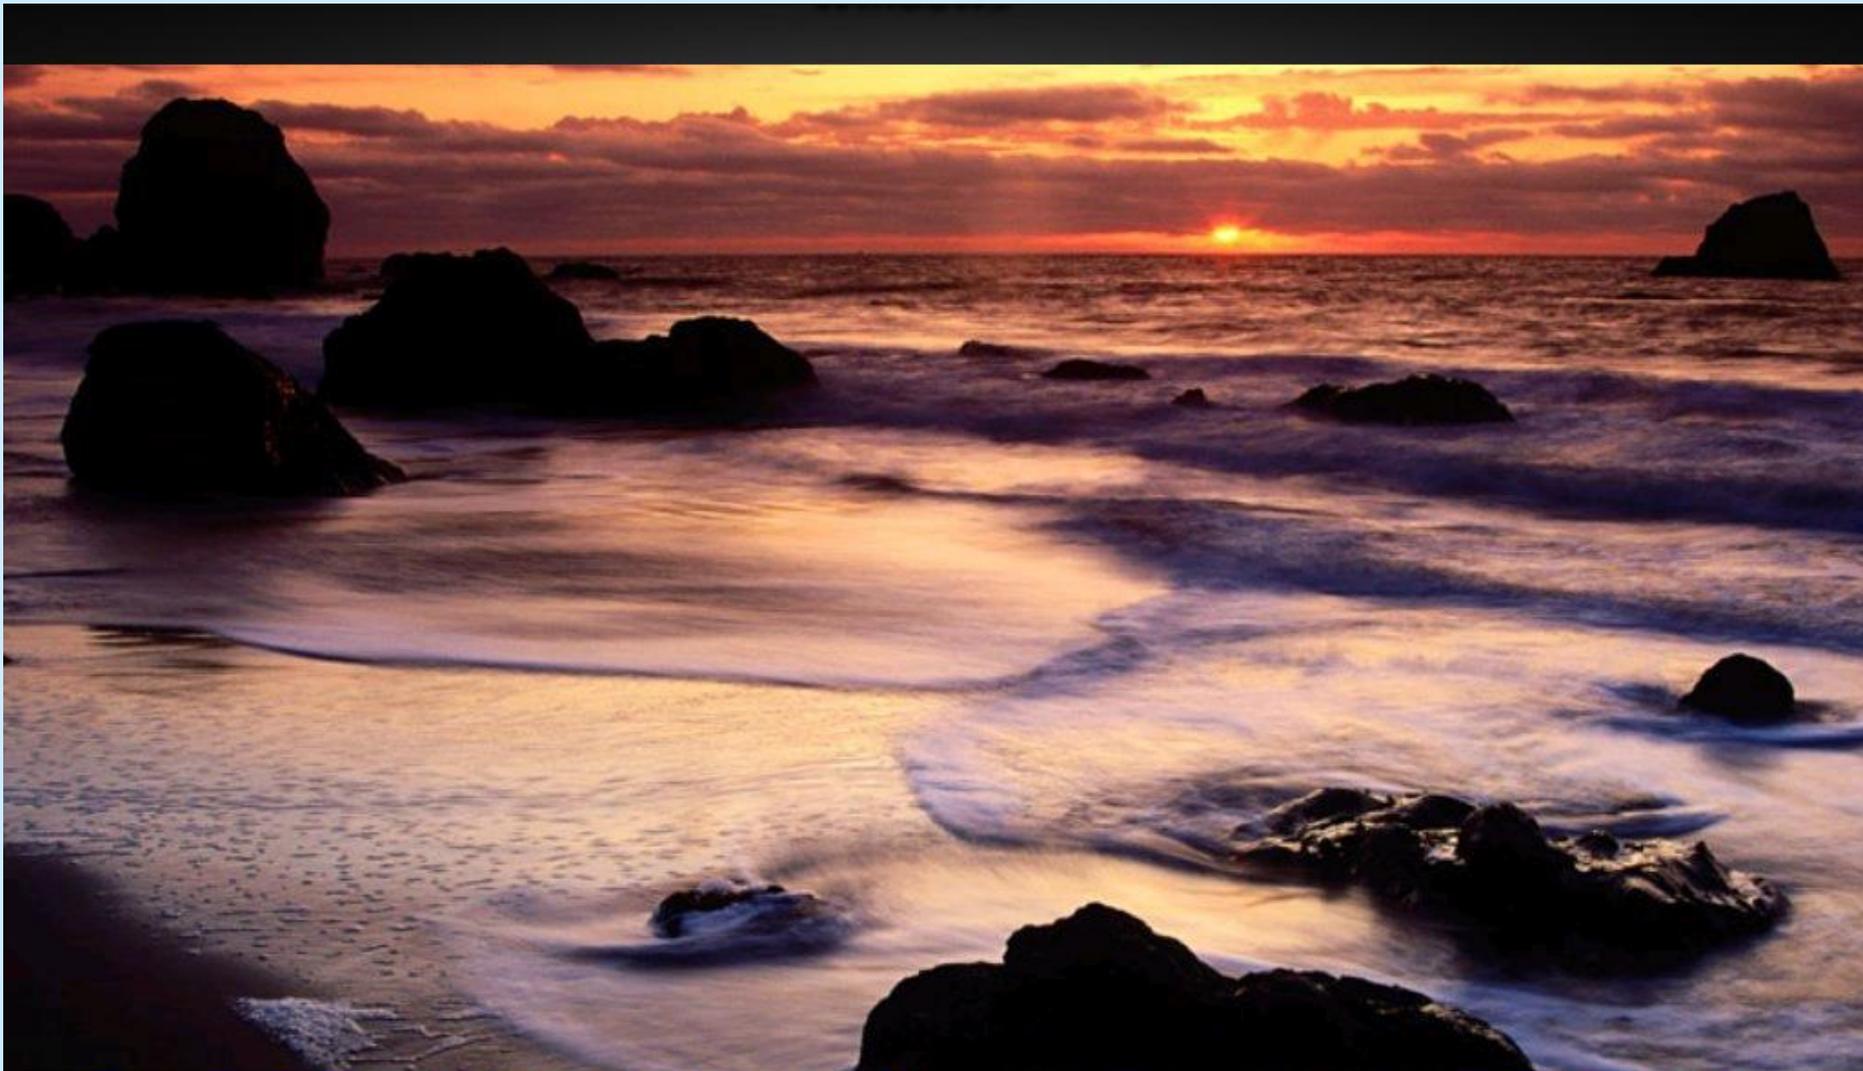

Thank you for a happy year at school.

Thank you for the friends we have made, the things we have learned, and the things we have done.

Help us to step out bravely, to take one step at a time, and do our best in the next school year.

Amen.

BELIEVE & SUCCEED

Courage does not always roar. Sometimes, it is the quiet voice at the end of the day saying, "I will try again tomorrow."

times, stand up eight.
